

INJUNCTION IS ISSUED IN DENVER

Alleged Cripple Creek High-graders Cannot Buy Ore Except Under Restriction

MAY BE MADE PERMANENT

Hearing of Case on Its Merits Set for Dec. 7 Over $750,000 Stolen Yearly

As a result of a petition filed Saturday in the United States circuit court at Denver by the Portland Gold Mining company, the Golden Cycle Mining company and the Stratton Independence, Limited, a temporary injunction restraining alleged high-graders in the Cripple Creek district from purchasing gold, under certain restrictions, was issued by Judge R. E. Lewis, before whom the case is pending. Subpoenas will be served upon the many defendants in the case today. The order stipulates that the defendants, of whom there are some 50, shall not purchase gold until they have submitted it to the superintendents of the plaintiff companies or to Secretary B. D. Woodruff of the Cripple Creek District Mine Owners and Operators association.

In the bill of complaint filed by the companies it is charged that the defendants have been in the habit of purchasing, at a discount, high grade gold ore from the employees of the complaining companies and other mines of the district; that the ore is then immediately crushed and sold by the alleged high-graders to the United States mint or to other smelters. It is said that the defendants, or some of them, have been posing as assayers and in that capacity they have bought, at night, from mine employees or their own employees, as much high-grade gold ore as the employees were able to steal and "pass" about their persons from time to time.

Over $750,000 Yearly. The complaint states that the high-graders in the district through misappropriation within the last 12 months in excess of $750,000, stating that the defendant companies alone are now losing upward of $5,000 a month through the high-graders' actions and their agents. The trial of the case on its merits has been set for December 7, in Denver, when an attempt will be made to make the injunction permanent.

High-grade Frost of this city, one of the attorneys for the complainants, said yesterday that criminal action has been brought against those believed to be guilty of high-grading, but that conviction, owing to certain local conditions in the Cripple Creek district, was impossible. Therefore, the matter was taken before a court of equity in the absence of an adequate remedy at law. It is believed that this latest action on the part of the mine owners, if successful, will permanently drive high-grading from the camp.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs that the defendants have encouraged mine employees to become dishonest and have secured them immunity from punishment and arrest. It is further alleged that certain saloons in Cripple Creek are being used as "fences" for the stolen ore, and that agents of the high-graders made nightly rounds of these saloons to collect the day's accumulation.

To Enter Records. The mine owners in the future will try to have all assayers keep records of gold and ore which comes into their hands.

MAN WHO SHOTS OWN DAUGHTER SURRENDERS

MOAB, Utah, Nov. 19.—After holding the officers of Grand county at bay for four hours, John E. Brown, who early Friday morning shot his daughter, Mrs. J. Dubois, to death and inflicted wounds upon her husband from which he died later, surrendered to the sheriff at an early hour today.

YUAN SHI KAI IS LOSING INFLUENCE

Chinese People Believe He Has Deserted To State Situation More Inv.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19.—The situation in northern China is becoming more involved each day. The Republicans are apparently determined to secure their independence from the Manchu dynasty, but there are grave doubts of their ability to establish a stable government in time to avoid the consequences of continued disorganization and the absence of revenue and a competent administration.

The local organizations generally are preserving order. Shanghai is the center of business for the entire Yangtze valley, which is stagnant while the military operations around Wuchang and Nanking are proceeding. The situation at Peking has little influence on the rest of the country. The power of Yuan Shi Kai's name is waning because it is believed he has deserted the cause of the people.

The provinces that have declared independence are organizing separate governments, but each refuses recognition by the central government. Nanking, the ancient capital, is still firmly in the possession of the imperialists, therefore the assertion of southern supremacy is not taken seriously.

The reformers recognize the importance of Nanking and both they and the imperialists are directing all their efforts to this important center, where victory may mean the end of the Manchu dynasty and defeat a serious setback to the revolutionary cause.

The reformers do not conceal the tremendous strain upon their financial resources in conducting the campaign against Nanking and maintaining their position at Wuchang. The fall of Nanking, possibly will mark the real commencement of the final act of the drama, but even then entire unity may be impossible. The outcome of the attack which the reformers are preparing to make on Nanking is problematical, but if the imperialists elect to remain behind the walls, it probably will become a question of siege and starvation. Neither side has an over-abundance of food supplies.

Strong Revolutionary Forces

The revolutionary forces approaching Nanking number many thousands. From Anking, on the north side of the river, 4,000 revolutionaries with 41 guns are marching to Pukow, which is opposite Nanking. From Wu-hu on the south side of the river, 2,000 men are advancing. Above Chin-ling there is a force of 3,000 revolutionaries, with 100 guns and it is estimated that 2,000 more are proceeding down the line of the Tien Tsin-Pukow railroads. Four ships now in the river under the command of rebels are waiting the signal for attack.

The Imperialist garrison in Nanking under command of General Chang, numbers about 11,000 men, well trained, well armed and strongly entrenched and fortified.

It is believed all the Republican forces are within one day's striking distance of the city.

Admiral Sah, who commanded the loyal squadron at Hankow and whose whereabouts have been uncertain for some time, arrived in Shanghai today. He appeared much depressed. It is believed that Admiral Sah will take any further action until the outcome at Nanking is certain.

Reports received here direct from Nanking say that all foreigners north of Pukow are safe. The consuls have recommended that all Americans in the Yangtze valley come in immediately to Shanghai.

MRS. PATTERSON TO GO ON TRIAL TODAY

Woman Who Killed Husband at Denver Will Plead Self-Defense, Says Counsel

DENVER, Nov. 19.—Gertrude Gibson Patterson, who, on September 23 last, shot and killed her husband, Charles A. Patterson, a young Chicagoan, while the couple were walking together in a suburb near a tuberculosis sanatorium, in which Patterson was a patient, tomorrow will be placed on trial for her life, before Judge George W. Allen, in the district court.

Mrs. Patterson, according to her counsel, will plead self-defense, alleging that she shot her husband during a quarrel in the course of which he attempted to take her life. That this quarrel was over a suit for alienation of Mrs. Patterson's affections, which the young husband, it is said, contemplated bringing against a well-known Chicago millionaire, and that the killing resulted from Patterson's refusal to drop the affair will be the contention of the state.

Important in its effect on the jury counsel for the defense claims will be the story Mrs. Patterson will tell upon the stand. She will lay bare, they say, all the details of her life, from the time, as a girl of 16 with her hair down her back in braids, she met the Chicago millionaire and the interest which led him to send her to Paris to be educated, resulted five months later, in relations between them that were maintained for five years, during which, she says, her family and friends, as well as the friends of the millionaire, believed the couple to be man and wife, that after she had married Patterson she discovered that he had been paid $1,500 by the millionaire to make her his wife, and that her married life was one long humiliation, marked by constant efforts on the part of Patterson to use her to bring money from the man with whom, she says, she had previously lived, will be told the jury, it is claimed.

Expect to Create Sympathy

The youth and beauty of the prisoner, and the tragedy of her life story, are expected to make a deep impression upon the sympathies of the 12 men who will decide her fate.

Mrs. Patterson's parents are here from Sandoval, Ill., to be with her through the trial.

District Attorney Willis V. Elliott is a member of the law firm through which Mrs. Patterson filed a divorce action just before the shooting. As a consequence, the state will be represented by a special prosecutor, Horace G. Benson. Elliott, it is said, may be summoned as a witness for the defense.

Mrs. Patterson wept bitterly today when taken into the embrace of her father, James Gibson, her mother and sister, Mrs. Robert Farnham, who were allowed to visit Mrs. Patterson in the matron's private quarters in the jail for an hour. The parents and sister arrived in Denver Friday from their home in Sandoval, Ill., but under the advice of Mrs. Patterson's counsel, were not allowed to see Mrs. Patterson until today.

The Chicago millionaire, whose name has been brought into the case by Mrs. Patterson, is now said to be stopping at a fashionable hotel in San Francisco.

Sixty taxsmen will respond to the call of their names before Judge Allen when the case is called tomorrow morning in the West Side court.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—Marie E. Gillen, a trained nurse of this city, will leave for Denver tomorrow, to testify in the case of Gertrude Gibson Patterson, who is accused of shooting her husband. Mrs. Gillen took care of Patterson during his illness in Denver.

"I certainly believe Mrs. Patterson fired in self-defense," said Miss Gillen today. "Mrs. Patterson was devoted to her husband. The proof of this is that when he was ill, and physicians and myself had to be summoned, she stayed right by the bedside night and day."

TWO KILLED WHEN FAST MAIL STRIKES FREIGHT

RICHMOND, S. D., Nov. 19.—The Great Northern fast mail No. 28, westbound, collided head-on with a freight train, six miles south of here today, killing the engineer and fireman of the mail train and injuring five others. The dead: ISAAC WRIGHT, engineer, Devils Lake, N. D.; MICHAEL O'LEARY, fireman, Devils Lake, N. D.

The freight engine crew saved their lives by throwing on the brakes, bringing the train to a standstill, and jumping. The mail train crew had no warning of the danger.

Mrs. Gertrude Gibson Patterson, who will be placed on trial in Denver today for the murder of her husband, Charles A. Patterson, Sept. 23, while he was living in a cottage at Mount Ida. Mrs. Patterson, who is from Chicago, told a story of being sold into bondage by her husband to a Chicago millionaire, Emil W. Strauss, and of the threats of her husband to sue her for divorce, after his money had run out. The trial promises to be one of the most unusual in the state. A diary left by the slain man will be one of the features of the defense.

Morgan Falls and Spills Collection CHICAGO MILLIONAIRE AND WIFE IN RUNAWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—J. Pierpont Morgan tripped in a lunch 10:30 a.m., falling to the floor, spilled the contents of the collection plate which was piled high with money. The banker was uninjured.

Mr. Morgan, who is senior warden of St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, was about to pass the plate to Bishop Greer for the offertory collection, when he stubbed his toe over a misplaced pew cushion on the floor just behind the altar and fell on his hands and knees. Several coins, bills and envelopes containing checks were scattered over a wide area, and the silver plate which he held with desperately for a moment went rolling away.

Pulton Cutting, the junior warden, former Mayor Seth Low, a vestryman and several clergymen were quickly at Mr. Morgan's side and the banker was soon on his feet again unhurt. He said, and apparently not at all perturbed—in fact, he was quite the calmest man at the church.

The incident, witnessed by a large congregation, occurred on an interval of the special service commemorative of the one hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the St. George's parish.

Mr. Morgan probably was the victim of his own gallantry, for the pew cushions, a dozen or more, were placed on the chance step at his suggestion to permit many women who had been standing in the back of the church to sit down.

YOUNG JURY TO SIT IN SWOPE MURDER CASE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19.—Before a young jury, with which the attorneys for the defense say they are well satisfied, Dr. B. Clarke Hyde tomorrow will go on trial for his life for a second time, charged with the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope. Opening statements in the case are expected to occupy most of the day. United States Senator James Reed as special prosecutor, will present the state's case, and Frank P. Walsh, chief counsel for Dr. Hyde, will follow him. It is thought no testimony will be heard before Tuesday.

General Bernardine Rees, arrested yesterday, on a federal indictment charging conspiracy against a patriotic society, will tomorrow appear before United States Commissioner Edwards and give another hearing to his appeal. The troop is now at Leon Springs and will march into San Antonio tomorrow morning and enter at 10 o'clock in the afternoon for Laredo. Other troops may follow.

U. S. TAKES HAND IN REVOLUTIONARY PLOT

Five Arrested in Texas to Be Charged With Violating Neutrality Laws

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 19.—Federal authorities today secured a quantity of ammunition and arms said to be a part of the plot to overthrow the Mexican government in Mexico. The officers who led the seizure were Juan Martinez, Felix Garcia, who was arrested as the result of a federal indictment returned last summer, and three others. Martinez was formerly a cavalry captain of Mexico and his arrest is the fifth in connection with this alleged revolutionary plot.

General Rees was arrested in San Antonio and three others said to be implicated were taken to Laredo yesterday. Martinez is said to have made a confession regarding the alleged revolutionary plot and to be a Laredo general. He has been charged with having sold arms to the revolutionaries and to have secured horses, arms and ammunition for a sizable amount of which has already been sent into Mexico.

It is stated today by United States Marshal Brewster that their important developments are expected within a few days.

Adjutant General Hutchins arrived here today from Austin and assumed command of the force of state troopers who are engaged in an investigation of the situation. It is said Antonio M. Pugh, who was arrested yesterday, will tomorrow make a plea for a writ of habeas corpus.

Revolutionists Ordered to Leave

ASTORIA, Tex., Nov. 19.—All revolutionists in the vicinity of Laredo must leave within 48 hours," reads a specific order tonight from Governor Colquhoun of Texas, to Adjutant General Hutchins, who is at Laredo to cope with the situation there.

Governor Colquhoun has received a telegram from President Taft indicating that he has instructed Secretary Stimson to cooperate with the Texas governor in every way to stop the movement within this state. This telegram came in response to a measure to the president from Governor Colquhoun in which he said he had information that there were 500 revolutionists in the vicinity of Laredo planning to divide into two attacking parties and begin the New Mexican revolution.

Government Approves Arrests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The arrest of General Bernardino Rees by American authorities at San Antonio for violation of the neutrality laws is exactly in line with the policy of this government to stamp out revolution in a territory against Mexico in United States territory, according to Secretary of State Knox.

The arrest of General Rees was not requested by the Mexican government," said Secretary Knox today. "The policy of this government has not changed one iota since the inauguration of Madero as president. So far as the United States is concerned the situation today is identical with that existing last spring, when Madero's agents were being arrested for violating the neutrality laws."

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—Troops were sent today to Mapimi to protect 100 American employees of the American Smelting and Refining company in the event of an expected strike of 3,000 Mexican workmen.

REPORTERS NOT TO SEE BEATTIE ELECTROCUTED

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 19.—Superintendent Wood of the state penitentiary, announced today that reporters would not be admitted to the death chamber Friday when Henry Clay Beattie Jr. is electrocuted for the murder of his wife.

Under a state law Virginia newspapers are not permitted to publish details of an execution. Reference to the Beattie murder has been made by several ministers in their sermons today.

CHINESE HAVE NOVEL IDEAS FOR "IAG DAY"

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Tag day in Chinatown, yesterday, probably furnished pointers to American taggers in the art of raising money for charity. A "year-inspiring" beast, whose name, "Moo Sche" (Good Lion), belied his ferocious mien, did the tagging. He journeyed from store to store to feed on cheong cheen, which is blocks for currency, and within the few blocks covered by the Chinese quarter he took toll of about $3,500, which will be sent to Shanghai on the next steamer to cross, for the relief and comfort of the soldiers of the revolution.

Beneath the emblematic acrobatic head of "Moo Sche" with its baying eyes and trailing peacock feathers, a young dancer gyrated and bowed profoundly to onlookers as the procession moved along. A Chinese drum corps acted as an escort. The beating of the drums was a warning that an offering was expected, and with the taking of money, great bunches of firecrackers were set off.

BUDGET READY FOR CITY COUNCIL

Water Dept. Gets $43,440.56, and Finance, $80,374, With $36,533.72 for Health

ONLY $26,000 FOR PARKS

Public Safety Given $91,040 and $91,000 Awarded to Dept. Public Works

With possible one or two changes to the made Mayor Avery has prepared the budget for 1912 for presentation to the city council this morning.

From all sources Mayor Avery will have $1,255,500 revenue. He has chopped the figures down until they are $70,000 lower than when first presented by the heads of the different departments.

The total of estimated receipts from licenses and similar sources, as he will present them today, will be $77,500. Taxes in 1912 are estimated at $1,243,000, the city will receive $325,000. The water works will amount to $17,000. The city will get $1,000 for the water works department, including the expenses of operation, maintenance and salaries. To this will be added an appropriation of $5,000 for the traction system making a total for the department of $12,000.

The interest on the water works bonds will amount to $64,800. The sinking fund interest will amount to $66,250.14, and in addition Avery expects to receive $60,000 worth of water works bonds. He will set aside an appropriation of $30,000 for the department of finance. In this sum will be included interest amounting to $10,160 on the sewer and viaduct bonds. Mayor Avery expects to retire $20,000 worth of city hall bonds which fall due during the year.

For the park commissioners he will set aside an appropriation of $26,000. The park commission asked for an appropriation of $50,000, and until a few days ago Mayor Avery expected to place $40,000 to its use, he says.

The department of public safety will be given $91,040.

The street department, including the lighting work, engineering department and street work proper will have $91,000 to carry it over during the year.

The Health Department

The health department, including the cemetery and sewer maintenance work, will have $39,337.22.

The police department will have an increase of $3,000 over the money set aside for its use last year, which probably will mean that some of the members of the department will be got on a raise in salary.

An increase of $500 means that the fire department will have but few thanks for what was provided for it last year. The requested increase of $500 will be out of the question, unless the chief and assistant chief get an advance. There will be no money to buy an additional motor truck, as was first expected.

The question was up to me," said Mayor Avery last evening, "and I answered it the best I could. I had just so much money placed at my disposal, and there were several things that I had to eliminate from the budget, which I regret."

Next year's budget will include an appropriation for the employment of a civic art expert, who will work under A. J. Lewiston, commissioner of public works and property.

FORGETS HIS NAME AND IS ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—A well-dressed young man appeared at the Oakland police headquarters yesterday, and asked for aid in discovering his own identity. He said he had forgotten his name and remembered nothing of his life. The police had an investigation and ascertained the youth's name was J. W. H. of Detroit and that he was wanted in various cities for having passed bad checks. He was arrested and being held on two charges preferred by a San Francisco hotel and by a member of a theatrical company who played here.

The young man denies all knowledge of the crimes and physicians who examined him believed they have discovered a remarkable case of amnesia, a total blankness of memory.

He was brought to San Francisco and was examined by physicians at a hospital here tonight.

HOW "REGULARITY" IS ACHIEVED

AT LEAST one of La Follette's policies has achieved the distinction of being "regular" beyond all question. It now satisfies the most extreme test of regularity: approval of The Herald-Telegraph. The sequence of events changing irregularity into regularity may be written as a story of four chapters:

Chapter I. Suggestion.

On August 9, 1911, Senator La Follette introduced a bill to amend the Sherman law by defining what constitutes unreasonable restraint of trade, by transferring the burden of proof from the Government to the trust or combination, and by facilitating the recovery of damages by injured parties.

Chapter II. Condemnation.

From September 15 to November 1, 1911, President Taft said repeatedly: "The Sherman law has been construed and construed, and construed finally by the Supreme Court so that now men know whether they intend to stifle competition and control prices."

Chapter III. Recantation.

On November 16, 1911, former President Roosevelt made editorial comment on the inadequacy of the Sherman law and favored revision.

On November 18, 1911, the news reports from Washington contained the following items:

The president has indicated that he will recommend a federal incorporation act, or if that cannot be passed by congress, he will approve certain amendments to the Sherman antitrust law.

Chapter IV. Justification.

On November 18, 1911, The Herald-Telegraph took "judicial cognizance" of the suggestion to amend the Sherman law. A portion of its editorial on "Mr. Roosevelt and Corporation Control" follows:

There is a good deal of justice and common sense in the statement made by former President Roosevelt in his recent article that the Government's policy in dealing with corporations has been chaotic and very much in need of revision.

No large business concern, be it a "trust" or otherwise, knows just what it can or cannot do under the present condition of our laws upon the subject. Apparently the only way in which a concern can tell whether it is operating lawfully or not is to be sued by the Government and after a process of several years the case finally goes into the supreme court. That body investigates and applies the "rule of reason" and the company may then be ordered to dissolve into its component parts or be given a "clean bill" and permitted to go on its way. Very few heads of corporations, even though they may be actuated by a desire to act lawfully and in the spirit of the statute, can know whether they are within the "rule of reason" or outside of it. This condition of affairs produces a very deplorable state of affairs in the commercial world, and a condition of uncertainty which every business concern is very trying to any business concern. Nobody knows just when he may be haled into court and his company subjected to dissolution.

L'envoi.

The Republicans now have notice that they may proceed to amend the Sherman law without fear of losing regularity or being "read out of the party."

A COMMON ECONOMIC FALLACY

A FEW years ago a writer in Harper's Weekly was discussing the extravagant expenditures of the ultra-rich. He told of the interminable dinners on gold plate, of the costly dresses that were worn once and then discarded, of the elaborate entertainments, of the numerous ways of wasting money and time conspicuously. This waste was going on at a time of industrial depression and widespread distress because of unemployment. The writer referred to, justified the elaborate mode of living of the wealthy because it "made work" for the numerous body of workmen and servants required for the conspicuous mode of living.

In the latter part of the Eighteenth Century, steam-driven machinery was introduced into manufacture. With the help of machinery one workman was enabled to do the work that formerly required a dozen or more hand-workers. Men were thrown out of work. Riots resulted. Charles Reade has made the problems of this time vivid in his "Put Yourself In His Place." Workmen struck blindly at the material thing that apparently caused their distress—the machine. The offending machines were smashed. But time has shown that the attempt of workmen to have work done in an uneconomical way is always futile. "To do things in such a way as to 'make work' is to the ultimate advantage neither of the individual worker nor of society."

Some time ago a philanthropic gentleman dilated upon the beneficence of providence in arranging that clothes and houses would be worn out and food destroyed by use. "To replace them," he argued, "means work, work means wages and the workman benefits." He did not carry his argument to its logical conclusion: the only use that the wage-earner has for his wages is to buy the things that wear out.

The writer in Harper's Weekly, the cotton-workers of the Eighteenth Century and the philanthropic gentleman all made the same fundamental error—an error in economics.

Extravagance and waste can not be justified because they "make work." It is true that a broken window gives work to the glazier, but does that make the small boy who throws stones a benefit to society? By no means. Logic can waste be made anything but waste.

The workmen who are thrown out of work by the introduction of machinery or more efficient methods have no sympathy. But they are no more to be encouraged in their efforts to reinstate the "make work" methods than is the small boy who breaks windows, or the wealthy New Yorker who hires a valet for his dog.

The Chinese coolie carriers resent the introduction of railroads for the same reason that the railroads of the United States opposed the building of the Panama Canal. They fear the loss of business. However, individual considerations must give way to social considerations.

The interests of society are always advanced by doing things more economically of course, considering everything. Goods produced with comparatively little effort are, in this way, made generally available.

FROM OTHER PENS.

From the Detroit Journal.

Dr. Hyslop says we shall all talk familiarly with spirits, but who shall compel us?

JOSEPH PULITZER.

One cannot conceive of Mr. Pulitzer ever forgetting his newspaper for one waking instant. He made it. It ruled him, lived on him, devoured him. All history, ancient and modern, to the fullest extent of the politics of the world, an intimate knowledge of the arts and sciences, a tremendous accumulation of facts about the daily business and pleasure, the hopes and fears and ideals of mankind—one is tempted to say universal knowledge—were his equipment for the making of a great newspaper. Illuminating his path ever blazed his faith in humanity, in the right of every man to his fair share in the good things of the world. That his paper should be the champion and advocate of the oppressed was the guiding principle he impressed upon all and sundry who came near him.

"Here shall the people's rights maintain."

was no mere poetic figure to him, but a vital truth. The advertiser who paid a great revenue for the use of one or two pages a day had no more influence on his editorial conduct than the man in the street who paid his penny for the paper—rather less. Yet he was far from being blind to material success. No journalist achieved more of it. He knew the sterling integrity and profound wisdom on the editorial page could not alone command the interest of the people. The other pages must afford a perfect presentation of the history of the day. Not was it enough to merely tell the news; it must be displayed, emphasized, illustrated with drawings or photographs, so that the reader of the paper could feel that he had been actually present at the great events of the day. Above all, there must be on the first page some head line or story or cartoon of illustration that would leap forth in a challenge to the attention of anyone that glanced at it, no matter how casually. And every chronicle of facts must tell why the thing that happened had happened. "Why?" was the word he uttered best. If these statements seem like conclusions rather than facts, let me hasten to say that they are an essential part of the effort to sketch the man who lived day by day, the substance of that which he reterogated the people, to those about him. The paper must be loyal to the people, above all, full of information, and so attractive that the casual reader must become a constant reader.

RETURNING SANITY.

From the Wall Street Journal.

Induced by the flood of irresponsible chatter with which the country has been deluged in the past few months, reading under the auspices upon legislative business by self-seeking lawyers eager for the time-light, it is with the deepest thankfulness that we record a definite turn in the tide. For the present, it seems too much to hope for any leadership in this direction from Washington, but there is a movement among the state legislatures in the past two years which is of the highest import.

According to that eminently useful institution, the Railway Business association, the laws passed affecting railroads by 11 legislatures in 1909 totaled no less than 604; the laws passed by 10 state legislatures meeting in the current year were 276, a decrease of 328, or 53 per cent. Arizona and New Mexico were in session only in the previous year, while Alabama, which met in 1911, was not in session in 1909.

This is not all. The recently elected governors of Texas, Oklahoma, Alabama and Iowa—all went to the people on platforms offering to treat business and transportation enterprises fairly and constructively, and all four were elected. Alabama added to this excellent record by repealing the law forfeiting the franchises of a foreign railway corporation carrying to the federal courts an appeal from a state statute, one of the most preposterous laws which ever disgraced a state statute book. Texas wants railroads and is going about getting them in the right way, while Oklahoma is going to the same end. It is a fair play to say that the legislative branch of the government is beginning to show signs of returning to its proper position in the building up of the country with reasonably realistic legislation.

In the factory Frank W. Noxon's invaluable com-plaintion—e are further informed that no railway laws were enacted in Texas, Georgia or Delaware; while such measures were kept down to eight or less in 21 other states, and there were largely of a reasonable taxing character, or deliberately designed to encourage construction, with a marked demonstration of freedom from hostility towards the carriers.

Here at last is a real revolution in sentiment, a return to sanity, a demonstration of that good sense which we like to believe is occasionally dormant in the American character, but never dead. After a wild orgy of rate regulation and restriction of the most paralyzing character, the people of the individual states are learning that their own interest is bound up in the prosperity and freedom of the common carrier. Great as the growth of this country has been, its resources are largely untouched, and no country in the world has done more to open up its resources by railroad extension than the United States.

It is a matter of the deepest satisfaction to record so promising a change for the better. Is it too much to hope that Washington will stop talking for a moment, to listen and take heed?

So many in this vale of tears are shining lights on Sunday; and then they let religion go, while chasing seeds on Monday. On Sunday some are so devout you hear their pious quiver, they sing the hymnbook with a shout, from River SPIASMODIC unto River; and when the Sabbath goes from us they scratch for bones and laurels, and do not care a tinker's cuss for any set of morals. Six days on sinful games they fill, and once a week are pious; the books in which the Word is writ that sort of graft deny us. Religion's good the whole week through, to Saturday from Monday, and we should then refuse to do things we'd abhor on Sunday. I am not strong on shaming persons—my voice is hoarse and creaky from singing primes and boneless hymns and health food from Popery; I am not strong on texts because the scoreboards keep me humming, and can't stop up with moral saws when football teams are jumping. But I've a simple creed; a plan that may have come from heaven; I'll be as pious as I can, not just one day, but seven.

Copyright, 1911, by C. M. Mason.

Yesterday we had the long promised symposium of my letter-friends' opinions on the kind of a woman a man likes best, and the opinions expressed were so interesting that I had to let them spill over into today's space.

Here is a description of an ideal of womanhood that sends me to Mr. Stevenson to hunt up his description of the ideal married life—for the faults of married people continually give us each of them, hour by hour, to do better, to meet and love upon a higher ground. And ever, between the failures there will come glimpses of kind virtues to cheer and encourage.

"My wife," says this idealist, "should be thoroughly domesticated, intensely fond of children and allied to the real home life. Musical, interested in the best literature, very affectionate and ready to forgive; neat in dress and very exact as to boots and gloves; unselfish, broadly religious, with charity towards her creed; fond of and willing to entertain; genial society; with a knife and fork always ready for 'strangers' unawares.' She must be a true life's partner who would tell me of my weaknesses and failures and help me daily with her woman's intuition and prayers to overcome my many faults; who would make our lives happier, holier and better for our unity."

"A married woman" yesterday declared that men did not like a girl who held herself cheaply and declared that men would hear her out. Here is one who does.

"My ideal woman must be neat, plain, sincere, cordial, generous, large hearted, with a kind, pleasant personality. She must be one who has ideas on what she has seen, not what she has heard of. One whose life and character is unquestioned, one who has traveled and with sufficient vocabulary to express herself intelligently; an independent girl and not a flirt or a jollier, and last but not least, a good plain cook who would try to please her husband."

I think this next man ought to get the exceedingly reasonable order that he puts in, filled. Don't you? Much depends on a man's nature as to what kind of a girl he likes. I have observed that intellectual men usually admire girls who possess good knowledge; girls who are not overburdened with humor. Furthermore, a sympathetic girl always appeals to a man, especially if her sympathy leans towards himself. Not too much spirit, but some. Some self-control and not too eternally sweet; just a little independence that keeps him on the alert. Also one who can keep her spirit sweet and avoid all manner of petty pique. That is an ideal girl and an observant man can find her, I am sure."

I asked especially for leaves from personal experience. Here is a rather sad one:

"I'm 25 or 26 years of age, the vivacious and the chic dress attracts a man, although not always without his having some feeling of fear. Men of this age know of the unconscious of the good and enduring qualities which make a woman estimable, companionable and lovable and also the qualities which produce the opposing effect."

"After that age, especially if they have been married, a man looks for and likes the woman who is not entirely selfish, who desires to see him happy, whose ideas are to help him, not to simply to have him produce substance for her to devour. Then men want a perceptive mind and a woman loyal and not wholly self-sympathetic. As this is a leaf from my experience you will pardon me for not signing my whole name."

Here is an infinitely happier example:

"Judging by my experience, I like a girl who had a woman who was gentle, affectionate (and effusive), considerate of everybody, respected during 12 years of married life and lived now eight years after her death. She was a woman that everybody, relatives, acquaintances and at last, loved for her consideration towards others, a woman whom all children held out their arms to with smiles on their faces, a woman who loved every child she was in spite of having seven of her own, a woman who went through the terrible ordeals of motherhood with a smile on her face and without a whimper—a woman who was always at the door to greet me with a smile, no matter how trying her day had been—a woman for whom my first love turned into a holy love such as one generally gives one's mother."

I trust my own sex have noticed that beauty has not once been mentioned as a necessary quality. There is a A.A.A. Beauty in the form of a woman, health, love of children, and domesticity are at premium.

RELAPSING FEVER

Famine fever, as this disease is also known, indicates a fertile source of the origin of this maledy.

Relapsing fever is a specific infection and highly contagious disease, generally occurring in epidemics. It is caused by a germ so small that 500 of them in the set end to end, would extend only one inch.

The disease occurs in times of famine, usually, and flourishes under conditions of overcrowding, dirt and poverty.

Individuals in constant contact with the disease (nurses, clergymen, doctors, etc.) are often attacked, though living under sanitary conditions and well fed.

Relapsing fever begins suddenly, with a chill and rigor, a severe headache just above the eyes and pains to back and limbs. The fever varies from 103 to 104 degrees. Conditions remain thus for a week or so, when crisis occurs, and recovery is rapid. Within a period of about 14 days the symptoms reappear, and the course of the fever repeats itself, generally in a modified form.

As a rule, few fatalities occur from relapsing fever.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The steel mills booked orders for finished steel products last week mainly because of the large contracts for equipment. Further heavy buying is assumed because of additional large orders for cars placed.

Orders for bars, plates and shapes were satisfactory from a tonnage standpoint, but most of the business was at minimum prices. Manufacturers other than car builders endeavored to place bar contracts for long-time shipments at inside prices, but the mills refused to accept business at the minimum, other than to cover specific contracts for finished material.

Rail contracts included 52,000 tons for domestic roads and 105,000 tons for Canadian lines. Between 15,000 and 16,000 more cars were ordered, the largest being 8,000 for the Baltimore and 2,400 for the Southern. Orders were also placed for 51 locomotives. The principal building contract was for the Continental Commercial National bank at Chicago, requiring 14,000 tons of steel shapes. Sudden buying movement surprised the pig iron trade with orders for fully 100,000 tons of foundry and steel-making iron, as an indirect result of the large railroad equipment purchases and low prices for iron in all districts. One feature of interest was the purchase of upwards of 50,000 tons of foundry iron for export to Canada for equipment during the first half of 1912. Foundry iron consumers in the eastern territory placed orders aggregating 75,000 tons, and as much more was placed in the central west, including 25,000 tons basic and 25,000 tons Bessemer.

The story turns on the fine development of a child singer who is cared for by a French priest and a sturdy young American. The priest acts as the controlling force of the book and it is he who stimulates the girl's ambition and controls her passionate impulses, while at the same time he makes the young man the instrument of great reforms among the quarries in Maine. The book is full of a high spiritual quality, that sets it apart from most of the current fiction.

SHERIFF RETURNS WITH BODY OF OUTLAW CHIEF

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 18.—Sheriff Stevens of Luna county, New Mexico, arrived at El Paso this morning with the bodies of Tom Hall and Al Smithers, members of his posse, who were killed yesterday at the V. X. T. ranch, near El Paso, while attempting to arrest three outlaws who escaped from the Deming jail, November 7. They also brought with them the body of the leader of the outlaws, whom they killed, and whose name is unknown. The outlaws were surrounded yesterday at a ranch, where they were at dinner. They rode out as if to meet the posse. Suddenly they dropped from their horses, and opened fire, killing Hall and Smithers. The posse returned the fire, killing the leader and wounding the other two men, who escaped in the mountains, where they continued firing on the posse during the night.

29,818 HOMESEEKERS GO WEST IN SINGLE MONTH

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 18.—Reports just compiled at the local office of the Harriman lines show that 29,818 homesekers were carried to the Pacific coast over the Harriman roads from September 15 to October 15 of this year. Of this number 15,320 passed through the Ogden gateway, 9,929 were carried via El Paso, 345 via Los Angeles and 4,201 via Portland.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

November 20, 1881. F. A. Weston had just completed plans for a handsome cottage to be built for Matt H. Wilbur. W. S. Stratton had the contract for its construction. Mr. Stratton afterwards became famous as the owner of the Independence mine in Cripple Creek.

The Y. M. C. A. held a gospel meeting in the Presbyterian church, presided over by Joseph Clark of Denver.

C. E. Stubbs left for the east to attend the funeral of his brother.

The Ruxton creek pipe line was finished as far as Shady Springs, and it was expected that it would be completed by the end of the year.

The firm of G. O. Comstock & Co. opened a fish and oyster store at 105 North Tejon street.

"The Wollipers" by Annie Hale and Harry L. Miller. The Sandfield Publishing Co., Akron, Ohio.

"The Wollipers" is an attractive picture book for very little people, with rhymes by Annie Hale and illustrations by Harry L. Miller. Birds and beetles and squirrels and shells indulge in harmless but entertaining pranks, and the always interesting rabbit also plays a conspicuous part in the story. It is a book that may be read to the 4-year-old just before bedtime, with no danger of inducing terrible dreams.

O. Henry's Last Story "Let Me Feel Your Pulse" by O. Henry. Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers, New York.

One of the latest stories that O. Henry wrote was "Let Me Feel Your Pulse." It is a very funny account of the adventures of a neurotic patient in search of health. The various forms of medical examinations are one of the most amusing things that was ever written. But one fact that the man who perpetrated these jokes was already in the shadow of death. The little book makes pleasant reading for an hour.

"The Personal Equation" by Lawrence McCurnin. Moffat, Yard & Co., publishers, New York. Whitney & Grinnell, Colorado Springs.

"The Personal Equation" is a book of inspiration and information. It is a charmingly written treatment of the advantages of the reading of biographies with special emphasis laid on the value of the personal equation in determining the success of one's life. The wide range of personages represented in Mr. McCurnin's book makes it helpful for young and old. It is not a mere recital of biographical facts, but rather an attempt to explain the reasons why certain lives have been effective for good and inspiring leadership.

George Meredith "The Comic Spirit in George Meredith" by Joseph Warren Blatch. Longmans, Green & Co., publishers, New York.

Whether people are reading Meredith's novels or not, the critics are writing an endless succession of books about them. One of the best of the whole lot comes from the pen of Joseph Warren Blatch under the title, "The Comic Spirit in George Meredith." There was need of such an interpretation, for Mr. Blatch has done his work well. He strikes a point occasionally, as he makes the foolish assertion that the sentimental and the naturalistic style of fiction are incapable of romantic imagination; but he fairly convinces one that comedy was Meredith's dominating aim.

Mr. Blatch does less than justice to "Diana of the Crossways," calling it commonplace, a sin for which he should pray to be forgiven; but he performs a valuable service for the Meredith cult by showing more clearly than ever before that Meredith's sound and wholesome aim as a novelist was to laugh people out of the notion that their acts are controlled by whims out of themselves, by fate, fortune, luck, providence, or any agency unconnected with their own character. Those who know what Meredith will most enjoy this illuminating book.

DR. KRAMER TALKS

"Young Men Shall See Visions" was the text used by Dr. F. F. Kramer, rector of All Souls Episcopal church, Denver, in his sermon at the Colorado college vesper services, in Perkins hall, yesterday afternoon.

He said that all advances in the past have been caused by visions both of the past and the future, and as soon as these visions cease, the progress of civilization will be meaningless and of no effect. The vision was that young men shall see visions of God and the ideal man, and as soon as they cease seeing these visions, they will cease to make progress.

HEROIC WORK DONE IN THE MISSIONARY FIELDS

Rev. S. E. Brewster Pays High Tribute to Devotion of Men in Various Lands

In discussing "Nineteenth Century Heroes" at the Christian church last evening, the pastor, the Rev. S. E. Brewster, paid high tribute to the missionaries who have labored under great disadvantages in this and other lands, claiming they were the truly heroic characters of this time. The world loved to honor those who did and dared on the battlefield for home and country, or those who faced arctic cold or torrid heat in exploration, but even these did not have so high a sense of duty and self-sacrificing love for humanity as these men and women who went as missionaries of the cross and labored, sometimes for many years, with but little apparent return. He said in part:

"These were heroes in an true sense as any that have ever lived. William Carey went to India and received no encouragement, the church at home caring little whether he lived or died. His wife was insane for 12 years, and he supported himself and family by working in an indigo factory. After seven years he baptized one convert. Afterward he saw thousands brought to Christ. His last words to Alexander Duff are indicative of his character: 'Say nothing, nothing about Dr. Carey, but talk about Dr. Carey's saviour.'"

"Robert Morrison went to China. When asked if he expected to make any impression on the 400,000,000 heathen of China, he replied, 'No, but I expect God will.' He translated the Bible, working 12 years in a deep cellar. Was he not a hero? Adoniram Judson went to India, had trouble with the mission board that sent him, and was not allowed to settle there, so went to Burma. After years of heroic service he could say, 'I eat the rice and fruits cultivated by Christian hands.' Robert Moffat was in Africa 50 years. No more heroic service for humanity was ever rendered for the sake of humanity."

"David Livingstone buried his wife in the dark continent, but wrote, 'I shall continue my work, but it is with a darkened horizon I set about it.' When he spent his last birthday in Africa, he wrote in his journal, 'My Jesus, my king, my life, my all, I again dedicate my whole life to thee.' Life needs no epitaph to guard his name. John G. Paton, John Hunt, John Williams, Dr. Royal Dye, all these and many more have shown the same heroic service for the sake of bringing this old prodigal world to Christ."

G. L. PATTERSON TAKES UP GIRLS RESCUE WORK

George L. Patterson of this city has returned from a successful lecture tour of the western slope. Large crowds greeted him at Leadville, Salida, Grand Junction and Montrose, where addresses were given in the interests of the Florence Crittenton Association of America. The following appeared in the Leadville Evening Chronicle, September 25:

"Last night G. L. Patterson spoke to a large audience on the work that is being done by the Florence Crittenton homes to rescue girls and young women from a life of shame. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Women's club and the Humane society. That the subject is one that appeals universally to all people, regardless of sect or creed, was illustrated by the presence in the audience of persons from both the Catholic and Protestant denominations. Mr. Patterson dealt with the subject in a delicate and non-sensational way, but that is not to say that there was a dull moment during the evening. The nature of the subject and Mr. Patterson's forceful delivery kept the audience intensely interested. It was an instructive and a well-rendered address."

On the night of December 10 a mass meeting will be held in the Opera house here to explain this work. Mr. Patterson is a graduate of Harvard law school, and was formerly engaged in the law business in Massachusetts. For some years he has made his home in Colorado Springs and devoted his time to various forms of philanthropic and religious work.

MRS. WELLS TO ADDRESS MEN OF CITY TONIGHT

Mrs. D. B. Wells will give a lecture for the men of Colorado Springs, at the First Presbyterian church, tonight at 8 o'clock, as a result of favorable comment that she has been receiving as a result of her talks to the women. Her address this evening will be on the "Meaning of the World's Unrest."

The series which Mrs. Wells has been conducting each afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church, has proved a treat to the club and missionary women of the city. She has been following two general lines throughout: First, the conservation of our national ideals; second, the comparative value of the different religions of the world.

The first is suggested by the book, "Conservation of National Ideals," a symposium of which Mrs. Wells is the author of one chapter. The second thought is from Robert E. Speer's "The Light of the World." Today Mrs. Wells will talk on "The Church and the Social Questions" and "Mohammedanism."

REV. E. B. PRATT TALKS ON "BOOK OF PHILEMON"

Draws Lesson From Story Before Men's Mass Meeting in Y. M. C. A. Lobby

The Rev. E. B. Pratt, evangelist, delivered a stirring address on the "Book of Philemon" at the men's meeting in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Pratt first told the story of the book of Philemon, which contains only 28 verses, and from that drew the lesson he wished to convey to his hearers. The story deals with three characters, Paul, Philemon and Onesimus.

Onesimus has been the faithful slave of Philemon for many years, but at last he steals from his master and runs away. A short time later, he meets a number of Christians who convert him to their faith. Upon repenting he returns to Philemon and asks forgiveness. Philemon, who also is a Christian, readily forgives Onesimus, who from that time on makes a most profitable slave, whereas before he was decidedly unprofitable.

Using this story as a framework, Mr. Pratt tells of a man of the ordinary type, who after living for some time as other men, finally commits a sin against God. He runs away, that is, he leads the life of the wicked, but at last he is converted by missionaries. After confessing to his sin he begs forgiveness for the sin committed some time before, and God readily forgives him. In this way he stops being unprofitable to God, and by being a Christian, commences a life profitable not only to Christ but to all his fellow men.

The sermon was of the type easily understood by all, and the Rev. Mr. Pratt delivered it in a most forceful way, conveying the lesson in such a way that it could not be forgotten. The special music was furnished by Amanda J. Jerny, Corea, who sang a number of solos. A large crowd was present, and the meetings seem to be gaining a greater foothold than ever.

FILMS AT OPERA HOUSE

An innovation is billed at the Opera house for today. The management has secured three films of moving pictures, the feature of which is the 1,000-foot roll, which shows the Atlantic fleet under review for President Taft, in New York, 10 days ago. The pictures are a great undertaking of a most interesting subject, being highly educational in nature. The entire fleet is shown as the battleships file past the reviewing yacht, and the salutes to the president and the answering salutes to the fleet form an interesting part of the reel. Then the men-of-war

A MOTHER'S DUTY

It is the duty of every expectant mother to prepare her system for the coming of her little one; to avoid as far as possible the suffering of such occasions, and endeavor to pass through the crisis with her health and strength unimpaired. This she may do through the use of Mother's Friend, a remedy that has been so long in use, and accomplished so much good, that it is in no sense an experiment, but a preparation which always produces the best results. It is for external application and so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every muscle, nerve and tendon involved during the period before baby comes. It aids nature by expanding the skin and tissues, relieves tenderness and soreness, and perfectly prepares the system for natural and safe motherhood. "Mother's Friend" has been used and endorsed by thousands of mothers, and its use will prove a comfort and a benefit to any woman in need of such a remedy.

Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers, which contains much valuable information. HARRIS PUBLICATION CO., 700 N. 1st St.

are shown at close range, a particularly interesting view of the new style conning towers is presented.

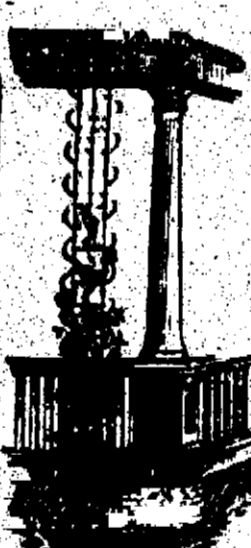

One of the most novel scenes is that of a torpedo being fired at a moving target, miles out at sea. The torpedo can be seen skimming along the surface of the water until it strikes the target almost amidships. Altogether, the reel is perhaps one of the most interesting and enlightening ever seen in this city. The other two reels will be in keeping, so far as merit is concerned, with that of the Atlantic fleet. The pictures will be shown today only, because the management has been unable to secure the use of the Atlantic fleet reel for a longer time.

Cold Dust Brightens the Home

Nothing is so attractive as a cleanly home; nothing contributes so much to cleanliness as Gold Dust. No matter what it touches—china, pots and pans, floors, woodwork, clothes, etc.—it cleans thoroughly, leaving everything spotlessly clean, bright and attractive.

Don't use up all your time and strength trying to keep things clean; use Gold Dust everywhere you can—in all your household cleaning—and let it do the work. It works so quickly and thoroughly that really it makes cleaning a pleasure instead of a task. It makes home "sweet" home.

WALSH FIRST PLAYER TO FILL EVERY PLACE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—James ("Runt") Walsh, the utility infielder of the Philadelphia National league team, will go down in baseball history as the first player in the major leagues to fill every position on the diamond. More so extraordinary is Walsh's feat because of the fact that he played in every position during one season. There have been other all-around players who have made good in various positions, but their efforts have, mainly been confined to the infield and the outer gardens. Walsh has filled every position, nearly every one of them satisfactorily, and has been a valuable man for the Phillies.

Originally "Runt" was secured as a substitute infielder, and he successfully filled the places of Doolan, Knabe and Lobert, when the regulars were out of the game.

Then Titus broke his ankle, and Walsh started on his outfield career. He played right field as if to the manner born, and had hardly returned to his accustomed place on the bench, when the Indians star in a pinch hitter, for the Indians were called upon to take up Magee's burden when the quaker star outfielder hit Umpire Pinner in a fit of frenzy over a bad decision.

Some time before that, Dode Paskert had missed a few games by grace of the umpire, and Walsh cavorted around center field to the satisfaction of Quaker City fans and the management.

Walsh used to boast that way back, when he was even smaller than at present, he used to pitch for an amateur team in his Indiana home, and it was a frequent source of irritation with the Phillies players as to what the National league batsmen would do to his delivery if he ever had the temerity to attempt to put them over the plate. Still, "Runt" insisted that he had been considered some pitcher in the old days, and had, when necessary, played both ends of the bat. But his teammates were unconvinced, and it was not until an injury laid Manager Doolan low and the officials of the club had been experimenting with all kinds of backstops, veterans as well as youngsters, that Mackie one day urged Doolan to call Walsh's bluff or let him make good.

Then it was that the little Hoosier, with little or no preliminary practice, went on one day to catch Chalmers, and to the utter discomfiture of his tormentors, made good with a vengeance. Not alone did he handle all kinds of deliveries, handling Chalmers, Alexander Rouns and Moore in fine style, but his throwing to bases was a revelation. He participated in half a dozen games, until he was relieved by the club signing new backstops, when he was sent back to the bench again.

Still there were two positions to fill before he had completed the circuit—pitcher and first base—and it was not until the last game of the season, with Boston, that he was put in the box when the Boston Bators made things warm for him, who started the game.

Walsh's debut as a pitcher was hardly as successful as in the other positions, as the tallenders rapped his delivery all over the lot for just one inning. Walsh seemed to get his grip on the unusual situation into which he had been forced, and for two innings did pretty well with the Boston slugs. His Waterloo, however, came in the sixth, and what Boston did to him was shameful. They piled up four runs on six hits before a man had been retired, and Manager Doolan jerked him out and sent him over to first base, so that he might enjoy the distinction of being the first player who had ever filled every position on a ball team in one season.

EVERYONE SHOULD BE IN TRAINING---CORNELL

By ROGER CORNELL.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—It is wonderful what a difference training makes in the human being. It changes him from a man capable of short exertion into one who finds pleasure in sturdy exercise, or one who engages in a fierce struggle on the track or field and, after a grueling contest, feels no evil effects, but rather is hardened and strengthened for future greater endeavors. Feats of strength and exhibitions which would be absolutely dangerous for the untrained man become easy and beneficial for the trained athlete. In other words, the body is put into perfect physical order and no one can gainsay that this is most desirable.

Training, being so beneficial should be a part of every one's life to a greater or less extent. It is not necessary that everyone be in condition to run a fast mile, to take part in a football contest, or to engage in some other hard exercise, but everyone should be in fair condition. People in general should never let their bodies get into such poor shape that they dare not run for a car, go for a long walk, help lift trunks, or do any other heavy work that may present itself at any time. If people would take a common sense view of this matter of training and keep their bodies in good condition, it would mean a great decrease in liver, kidney, lung and heart troubles, and it would add greatly to the mental vigor of the nation in general.

But training has its abuses. It must not be overdone. Too much competition drains the nervous force of anyone, while a too vicious course of training may result in permanent injuries of the body. We are at last getting more rational in our methods of training in this country, so that the life of the athlete is no longer one of numberless privations. Very many athletes need to change their mode of life but little on going into training, and this should be the case for the great majority of men and women. One abuse of training, or at least an abuse for which training gets the blame, is the abuse of the good things of life after a good season of regular training. Many an athlete, lacking in moral fiber, has plunged from strict training into all sorts of intemperance. The consequence is that his system is undermined. His heart and lungs may become affected through neglect, and thoughtless people point to such examples as the evil of athletics.

Let everyone go into training of as a sort for it is most important that the body should be in good condition.

PRINCETON IS OUT WEST FOOTBALL TEAM WINS, 11 TO 6

Princeton has won the championship of the so-called "big four" in the east. The Army and Navy eleven, both unbeaten, remain to clash for supremacy at Philadelphia Saturday. Harvard and Yale, though still among the top notchers, must settle their ancient rivalry this week, each with the sting of two defeats.

Pennsylvania, four times beaten, has lost much support as a favorite in its annual clash with Cornell. Dartmouth, one-ended its season, defeated by Princeton and Harvard in such close contests that it may easily lay claim to a place among the leaders.

Penn State, still unbeaten, looks formidable for its game with Pittsburgh and for recognition for those who seek to define the eastern championship.

The Carlisle Indians, too, remain a strong eleven and favorites for the two more games on their schedule—Brown and Johns Hopkins—notwithstanding their progress was marred by defeat by Syracuse Saturday.

The intersectional championship is an undefined honor, as the defeat of the Michigan team by Cornell in the east, was evaded when two eastern teams fell victims to western football teams Saturday—Pennsylvania at Ann Arbor and Cornell at Chicago.

In the "big eight" circle of the intercollegiate west, the situation is complicated by the tie game between Minnesota and Wisconsin, leaving the Gophers tied for first honors as the games now stand. Wisconsin meets Chicago on the latter's grounds Saturday and if Chicago wins it gives Minneapolis a leadership with a record of no defeats and one tie game.

This outcome would place Chicago and Wisconsin third. If Wisconsin defeats Chicago, the present tie with Minnesota continues unsettled. Illinois, Northwestern, Indiana and Purdue stand in the order named among the conference teams.

Princeton's victories carry with them the one name most conspicuous in the list of individual stars so far, that of Sam White, the winner of many a baseball game for the Tigers, but who, according to the interesting report, had to be practically dragged to the gridiron, for he never liked football.

WALSH FIRST PLAYER TO FILL EVERY PLACE

comes up to the American standard, but 10 such sprinters are developed in this country to one from any other country. Sprint running is especially adapted to the American temperament and to the American physique and this is why our sprinters are so numerous and of such a high class. As a sprinter cannot be a success until he has mastered the start, we shall take this up first.

The style of start that is used today is called the crouching start and it was first used in this country. In this style the sprinter places his right or left foot on the mark and, leaning over, rests his hands on the mark. The other foot is placed at such a distance back that when the sprinter gets "set" (that is, gets fully ready to start) he feels steady on the mark and can stay ready to go at an instant's notice. Then at the sound of the pistol, he bounds away from the mark. It sometimes happens that the athlete is so long-limbed that by placing both his feet and his hands on the mark he is too cramped to feel easy or to get away with his full strength. As by the rules no part of the body can be ahead of the mark, the athlete should place his front foot far enough behind the scratch so that he can feel easy when set and can get all the powers of back and legs into his first rush from the start.

The mere getting away is only half of starting. It is of course necessary that the sprinter should get away fast from the mark, but he should also pay the strictest attention to getting into his running at once. Five yards away from the mark he should be thoroughly into his stride and should be at his best speed. This can be accomplished only by smooth and concerted action of the entire body. Duffy, the world's record holder, was the best exponent of this we have ever had. Some sprinters tear away from the mark using their arms and body so strenuously that they cannot get their true form for some distance. The sprinter should pay great attention to this part of his training and try to develop a very fast start and an ability to get into his running at once.

The start and the getting up speed having been attended to, the sprinter has merely to keep it up to the finish. He should pay attention to his style and neither clip his stride nor overstride. The entire body should be used as the arms and legs play a very important part in the dash.

The actual training of the sprinter should consist of several starts and short sprints to develop speed at the beginning of the race, occasional 50-yard dashes at full speed, and the full distance run through at least once a week. This applies to the 100 yards.

MEN WHO TARRED GIRL WILL BE TRIED TODAY

LINCOLN CENTER, Kan., Nov. 19.—Miss Mary Chamberlain, who was given a coat of tar last August by a crowd of men and boys, will testify tomorrow in the trial of three of her alleged assailants. She probably will not be called to the stand before afternoon, however, as it is believed the state may decide first to examine minor witnesses with the view of learning the nature of the defense.

The jury was completed last night, and everything is in readiness for the hearing of testimony. Several members of the "tar party" have already pleaded guilty.

ELECTRIC TURNSTILES

One of the novelties at the Tatters state fair was the electric turnstiles. The visitor dropped a half dollar in a slot which unlocked the gate and registered his attendance in the superintendent's office. This device kept accurate account of the attendance from several gates at once.

What the Press Agents Say

WONDERFUL PICTURE. AT OPERA HOUSE

Some wonderful motion pictures are to be seen at the Opera house, this week, commencing this afternoon and continuing every afternoon and night this week, excepting Friday. The prices are 10 cents for any seat on the lower floor and 5 cents in the balcony and gallery. The lowest seats of prices ever attempted in this city for pictures of this class. The performances will run from 1:30 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock, and from 7:30 o'clock until 10:30 o'clock.

The great film, showing the naval parade, as reviewed by President Taft, is the feature of today's and tomorrow's program. This film, which represents the scene of motion picture taking, shows the great United States navy in review, and presents a thrilling sight of these great ships.

The Austin flood is another subject which will be shown. The realism of this film is said to be almost terrifying. The effect obtained and the remarkable fidelity with which the camera reproduces these scenes, has never before been equaled in the motion picture world.

Added to these fine subjects is the fact that Manager Nye has secured the best light effects and the largest picture ever seen in this city. Furthermore, the pictures are shown in a comfortable theater, with good ventilation.

COMMENTS ON MORMON CHORUS

The Mormon Tabernacle chorus is a magnificent and imposing chorus. Their singing is wonderful—Faderewski.

I have heard most of the choirs and large choruses of the country, and played with many of them. Certainly the Mormon Tabernacle choir is the best trained of any in the United States. In New York it would cause a sensation—John Philip Sousa.

The balance, tone, shading and enunciation of the chorus are little short of perfect, and Conductor Stovell has every reason to feel proud of the results of his long and patient training—Editorial Omaha World-Herald.

Seldom has a better trained chorus appeared in Chicago—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Mormon choir will give one concert only, at the Opera house, Friday night.

CHILDREN'S WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

This is going to be children's week at the Majestic theater, and if, when Friday night rolls around, there is any youngster in town who has not seen Prince Jack and the other attractions for the little folks, he will have been the victim of real injustice on the part of his parents. And the parents will get the worst of it, too, for the youngster who has such a chance to enjoy himself as much as is possible at the Majestic this week is a better boy, and in nine cases out of 10 he will take to heart the lesson in obedience afforded by the wonderful monkey, who is the feature of the bill.

No circus ever gave the children more of a treat than does Prince Jack, and the several hundred children who were at the Majestic Saturday to see him, can find nothing else to talk about. Prince Jack seems almost human. Especially does he in the way he acts, and one can hardly help believing that he does some of his funny stunts understandingly. One could be sure he did if he would only laugh, but monkeys don't laugh.

This little fellow, he isn't as large as a year-old boy—rides a tiny bicycle all over the stage, gets on and off just as easily as a grown-up, and "wings" up by riding the wheel. He also skates on roller skates, and if it were not for his forelegs and tail, would have some bad tumbles. But the most wonderful thing he does is play chess, repeating all played by the orchestra, and finally accompanying them in a long selection.

But he is not the only delight for the children. John Geiger and Nellie Winters, with their hand organ, and the other attractions for the little folks, are also skates on roller skates, and if it were not for his forelegs and tail, would have some bad tumbles. But the most wonderful thing he does is play chess, repeating all played by the orchestra, and finally accompanying them in a long selection.

Altogether, it is a great bill for the youngsters, and the grown folks who have seen it say it is an enjoyable to them, as to the little tots. Performances at 2:45, 7:30 and 9:10. Admission, only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

RAFFERTY TODAY AT THE CRISTAT.

The announcement of the presentation today and tomorrow at the popular little picture playhouse, of the official film of the world's championship series of 1911, has been received with considerable interest by local fans.

Views are shown of games both at New York and Philadelphia, and the star members of the winning Athletics and their formidable rivals, the Giants, are seen in some of the hair-raising plays of the most notable series of games ever contested. Few will fail to find this big feature of a bill, every member of which is "a gem in itself," including 20-minute play, "The Tars As Above," and the all-time military picture, "A Day at West Point." No lack of price.

"The Secret of a Good Figure" is the big feature in the motion picture series of today. It is a story of a man who, by his life of work, an artist, if you will, the strange of lighting is not at all, one of the most famous of the world.

The reason why the artist is so successful in this city is so simple and so obvious, and yet not many of the artists in the personnel of the official staff.

Turkey Talk

Thanksgiving is a week from Thursday. Have you ordered your turkey? Good ones will be scarce. Better telephone your order at once.

We can't declare a definite price just yet, but we will give all our customers the benefit of the market.

Remember, our turkeys will be of the best quality obtainable, plump and tender. Don't be misled by cheap prices. You don't want a scrawny, tough turkey at any price.

The balance, tone, shading and enunciation of the chorus are little short of perfect, and Conductor Stovell has every reason to feel proud of the results of his long and patient training—Editorial Omaha World-Herald.

Seldom has a better trained chorus appeared in Chicago—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Mormon choir will give one concert only, at the Opera house, Friday night.

CHILDREN'S WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

This is going to be children's week at the Majestic theater, and if, when Friday night rolls around, there is any youngster in town who has not seen Prince Jack and the other attractions for the little folks, he will have been the victim of real injustice on the part of his parents. And the parents will get the worst of it, too, for the youngster who has such a chance to enjoy himself as much as is possible at the Majestic this week is a better boy, and in nine cases out of 10 he will take to heart the lesson in obedience afforded by the wonderful monkey, who is the feature of the bill.

No circus ever gave the children more of a treat than does Prince Jack, and the several hundred children who were at the Majestic Saturday to see him, can find nothing else to talk about. Prince Jack seems almost human. Especially does he in the way he acts, and one can hardly help believing that he does some of his funny stunts understandingly. One could be sure he did if he would only laugh, but monkeys don't laugh.

This little fellow, he isn't as large as a year-old boy—rides a tiny bicycle all over the stage, gets on and off just as easily as a grown-up, and "wings" up by riding the wheel. He also skates on roller skates, and if it were not for his forelegs and tail, would have some bad tumbles. But the most wonderful thing he does is play chess, repeating all played by the orchestra, and finally accompanying them in a long selection.

But he is not the only delight for the children. John Geiger and Nellie Winters, with their hand organ, and the other attractions for the little folks, are also skates on roller skates, and if it were not for his forelegs and tail, would have some bad tumbles. But the most wonderful thing he does is play chess, repeating all played by the orchestra, and finally accompanying them in a long selection.

Altogether, it is a great bill for the youngsters, and the grown folks who have seen it say it is an enjoyable to them, as to the little tots. Performances at 2:45, 7:30 and 9:10. Admission, only 10, 20 and 30 cents.

RAFFERTY TODAY AT THE CRISTAT.

The announcement of the presentation today and tomorrow at the popular little picture playhouse, of the official film of the world's championship series of 1911, has been received with considerable interest by local fans.

Views are shown of games both at New York and Philadelphia, and the star members of the winning Athletics and their formidable rivals, the Giants, are seen in some of the hair-raising plays of the most notable series of games ever contested. Few will fail to find this big feature of a bill, every member of which is "a gem in itself," including 20-minute play, "The Tars As Above," and the all-time military picture, "A Day at West Point." No lack of price.

"The Secret of a Good Figure" is the big feature in the motion picture series of today. It is a story of a man who, by his life of work, an artist, if you will, the strange of lighting is not at all, one of the most famous of the world.

The reason why the artist is so successful in this city is so simple and so obvious, and yet not many of the artists in the personnel of the official staff.
